South Africa pushes back against Foot-and-Mouth Disease

Platinum Publishers | South Africa continues to battle a widespread outbreak of Foot-and-Mouth Disease (FMD), with several provinces still affected. Authorities say the disease remains a serious threat to cattle and other cloven-hoofed animals, but a large-scale response is well underway. More than two million animals have already been vaccinated, with additional vaccines being imported to strengthen containment efforts. Government and industry partners are working together to limit the spread, while farmers are urged to follow strict movement controls.

Officials warn that illegal livestock movement remains a major challenge. Despite this, ongoing vaccination and coordinated action offer hope that the outbreak can be brought under control in the months ahead.

FROM STREETS TO SECOND CHANCES

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – Something powerful is happening in Rustenburg — and it is changing lives. Through the ongoing work of the Rustenburg Transformation Centre, individuals trapped in addiction and homelessness are being given real opportunities to reclaim their dignity, stability, and future.

The centre, an already established and registered non-profit company (NPC), is driving a coordinated response that moves beyond short-term solutions and focuses on lasting transformation. Operating under the Rustenburg Transformation Centre is Friends to Addicts, a hands-on programme that works directly with people struggling with substance abuse. Together, the organisations form a united front — addressing addiction at street level, supporting recovery, and actively working to prevent others from falling into the same cycle. According to Community Policing Forum (CPF) EXCO treasurer Harry Swart, the need for decisive action has become impossible to ignore. “We are seeing more drug addicts on the streets,” he said. “They are arrested, processed, and released again within days. Without intervention, nothing changes.” Determined to disrupt this pattern, Friends to Addicts, in collaboration with the CPF, began identifying appropriate rehabilitation facilities and actively referring individuals for treatment. The results speak for themselves: 21 people have already been placed into rehabilitation programmes, each one a life redirected away from the streets.

Founder of Friends to Addicts, Ernest Lee Pienaar, said the programme is built on both discipline and compassion. “We don’t believe in a one-size-fits-all approach,” he explained. “We place people in cost-effective rehabilitation centres that suit their character and background. But rehabilitation is only part of the solution — prevention is just as critical.” That commitment continues long after rehabilitation ends. Friends to Addicts already offers reintegration and ongoing support, including regular support group meetings at 190 Kerk Street, Rustenburg. Here, recovering addicts receive guidance, accountability, and practical support as they work to rebuild their lives and re-enter society with purpose. Looking to the future, the organisation has set its sights on an even greater goal. A piece of land has been earmarked for the development of a homeless shelter, which will also function as a prevention centre. The aim is clear: to provide safety, structure, and support to homeless individuals before substance abuse takes hold. “We want to stop the problem before it starts,” said Pienaar. “By offering shelter, stability, and guidance, we can prevent people from turning to drugs as a means of survival.” Despite its growing impact, the initiative faces a significant challenge: funding. CPF EXCO chairperson Marcus Haasbroek estimates that at least R50,000 per month is needed to sustain rehabilitation placements and reduce the risk of relapse. While the desire to help more people is strong, financial support remains essential. Friends to Addicts is now calling on the broader community and local businesses to stand behind the initiative. Businesses can request an Article 18A tax certificate, allowing donations to be tax-deductible while directly contributing to meaningful change.

Community members or businesses who wish to donate or get involved can contact:

- Harry Swart: 072 543 1587
- Jolene Pasino: 066 491 8819
- Ernest Lee Pienaar: 064 088 9573
- Johan Mostert: 061 301 6257

In a town facing serious social challenges, the Rustenburg Transformation Centre is proving that decisive action, community partnership, and compassion can turn desperation into opportunity — and streets into pathways toward a second chance.

THREE YEARS AND COUNTING...

A Mother's Grief as Justice Is Delayed Again

Platinum Weekly | Rustenburg – More than three years after the murder of 31-year-old Caroline Werner, her family is once again forced to endure another painful delay in the pursuit of justice. The case against the accused, Solly Maledu, was postponed... again... to 17 February 2026.

According to National Prosecuting Authority spokesperson Sivenathi Gunya, the accused remains in custody.

For Caroline's mother, Ella Blackbeard, the postponement is another crushing blow in a journey marked by grief, exhaustion, and unanswered questions. "My heart is just broken," Ella said. "To sit in court and see him standing there with such arrogance is a bitter pill to swallow," she said. "After more than three years of going back and forth to court, we still have no answers — no why, no reason. And once again, it is postponed."

The latest delay follows the appointment of a new legal representative for the accused, continuing a pattern of postponements that has plagued the case since Caroline's murder in September 2022.

Caroline is remembered by those who loved her as a warm, vibrant woman with a contagious spirit. While time has moved on for the world around them, her family remains caught in a relentless cycle of court dates, delays, and grief.

Help turn rooms into homes at Lighthouse

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – The Lighthouse Child & Youth Care Centre in Kruger Street is calling on the community to help with a new and meaningful project — decorating 14 children's bedrooms for the children in their care. At present, the rooms are still undecorated and in need of colour, warmth and personality. The goal is to transform them into welcoming spaces that feel like home. Founder Elsa Doubell explains that the children themselves have chosen themes for their rooms. "The kids gave their rooms different themes. Community members can either visit the rooms or receive photos to decide how they would like to help decorate. It's about making the rooms more personal, especially as more than one child shares a room."

Lighthouse hopes individuals, families and businesses will get involved by helping to decorate a room or contribute items that will make the spaces more vibrant and alive. For more information or to get involved, contact Elsa Doubell on 083 493 5911.

Onalenna's case pushed to March 2026

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg

– The case surrounding the murder of North-West University (NWU) student Onalenna Selebogo (21) has been postponed once again. Sivenathi Gunya, communication officer for the National Prosecuting Authority (NPA) in the North West Division, confirmed that the case against the accused, Walter Tshela, has now been postponed to 5 March 2026.

Tshela is accused of brutally murdering his girlfriend, Onalenna, whose body was discovered wrapped in sheets at a flat in Tuin Street, Rustenburg, on 3 August 2025. She had sustained multiple stab wounds to the neck.

Students and staff at NWU have previously gathered in vigils to honour her life, calling for accountability and justice. Those who knew her remember Onalenna as a warm, driven young woman with a bright future ahead of her – a life full of promise that was cruelly cut short.

GONE TOO SOON... North-West University student Onalenna Selebogo (21), remembered for her warmth and determination, whose life was tragically ended in an act of brutal violence. (Instagram photo)

A Survivor's Story of Violence and Waiting

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – Platinum Weekly recently interviewed a survivor of a near-fatal domestic violence attack – an interview that sheds light not only on the brutality she endured, but also on the long and painful road to justice that still lies ahead. At the request of the victim, Platinum Weekly is withholding the names of both the victim and the accused, as the matter concerns her personal safety and wellbeing.

inside it. Weak, bleeding heavily, and fearing death, she says she could smell blood on herself and believed she was moments away from dying. When a friend of the accused knocked on the door, the accused allegedly threatened to kill her if anyone entered. The friend contacted the accused's mother, who advised him to call the police. Instead, the accused reportedly returned to the bathroom, where the survivor says she saw additional weapons. She attempted to escape but was pulled back and pinned down before being struck on the head with a brick. She believes this is when she lost consciousness.

SURVIVAL THROUGH STRATEGY

After regaining consciousness, the survivor says she realised her only chance of survival was to soothe her attacker. She pretended to comply, reassuring him that she would not leave and promising not to open a case if he let her go. Later, when he fell asleep, she seized the moment. She took his phone and contacted the same friend who had come earlier. He instructed her to run to his house nearby and then assisted her in going to the police.

The accused was arrested the very next day on charges of attempted murder. The survivor later discovered that he had previously been charged with the murder of his father and was out on bail at the time their relationship began.

She says that since his arrest, the accused has repeatedly contacted her from custody, begging her to drop the charges. Members of his family have also allegedly approached her, referring to the attack as a "lovers' quarrel."

LIFE AFTER THE ATTACK

The survivor told Platinum Weekly that her life has changed drastically. She has since left her job, saying she could no longer meet expectations while coping with trauma. She admits that she has started drinking more since the incident and struggles to trust anyone enough to enter a new relationship, fearing a repeat of the violence. The attempted murder case has been postponed to 3 February 2026.

According to the survivor, the magistrate ruled that while the defence appeared to plead guilty, the accused's statement did not clearly amount to a full admission of guilt, as he only acknowledged the stabbing and not the strangulation. This postponement has been confirmed by the National Prosecuting Authority (NPA). The last court appearance took place on 26 November 2025 at Regional Court 2, Rustenburg Magistrate's Court.

As the survivor waits nearly two years for her case to continue, her story highlights the devastating impact of gender-based violence — and the emotional toll of slow justice.

A RELATIONSHIP THAT FELT SAFE... UNTIL IT WASN'T

The incident took place in September 2024, after the couple had been dating for seven months. The victim explained that the relationship had been loving and close. They were best friends, shared everything, and there had never been any physical violence before that night.

Because she often knocked off work at around 22:00, she decided to temporarily move in with her boyfriend, who lived closer to her workplace. What seemed like a practical decision would later turn into a life-threatening ordeal.

On the night of the attack, her boyfriend returned from visiting friends and found her asleep. An argument broke out after she confronted him about a cellphone he had allegedly stolen, making it clear that she wanted no part in criminal activity. She says he became enraged.

According to the survivor, the assault escalated rapidly. As she prepared to take a bath and leave, the accused allegedly used a laptop cable to strangle her, dragging her from the bathroom into the living area. He then continued choking her with his hands.

The violence continued into the kitchen, where he allegedly stabbed her multiple times — first in her thighs and then in her back, shoulders, and hands as she tried to shield her face. She recalls him telling her that she would not be leaving him and that she was going to die that night.

She further alleges that he prepared a bag intended to dispose of her body, placing weapons

R10 Million Mine Fraud Case Pushed to May 2026

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – The fraud case involving a former Rustenburg mine employee accused of stealing millions of rands has been postponed once more, with the matter previously set for 8 December 2025 now rescheduled to proceed to trial in May 2026. Sivenathi Gunya, North West communications officer for the National Prosecuting Authority (NPA), confirmed to Platinum Weekly that the case — State vs. Cunningham — has been postponed to 25 May 2026 for trial.

The accused, Alicia Gwyntahon "Gwynnie" Cunningham (34), a former employee of Sitona Mining, faces charges linked to the alleged theft of more than R10 million from the company over a number of years. The alleged offences are said to have occurred between 2014 and 2019, while Cunningham worked in the mining company's accounting division.

BACKGROUND TO THE CASE

The investigation into the alleged fraud began in 2019 after financial discrepancies were detected at Sitona Mining. According to the Hawks' Serious Commercial Crime Investigation Unit, Cunningham and a colleague, Dinah Dorothea Botes (42), were implicated in a scheme involving fraudulent transactions and the diversion of company funds. Both women were arrested in June 2022 following an extensive investigation into the missing funds.

CO-ACCUSED ALREADY CONVICTED

Botes, who was charged separately, has already been sentenced. In February 2024, she was convicted on 126 counts of theft involving more than R9.3 million and received a 15-year prison sentence in the Rustenburg Magistrate's Court.

WHAT LIES AHEAD

Cunningham remains out on R15,000 bail as the State prepares for trial. Prosecutors are expected to rely on detailed financial records, audit evidence, and the outcome of the related case when proceedings eventually get under way.

Gumbi murder case moves closer to trial

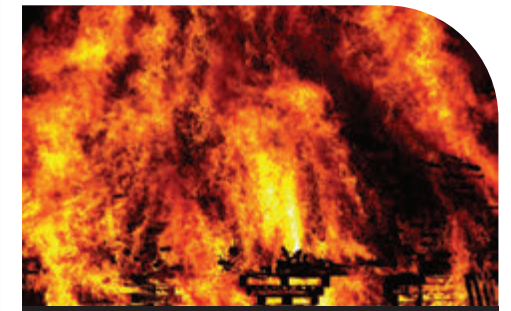

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – The long road to justice in the murder of respected businessman Ben Gumbi has taken another step, while the third accused in the case remains behind bars as the matter moves toward trial.

The National Prosecuting Authority (NPA), through its North West spokesperson Sivenathi Gunya, confirmed this week that the third suspect linked to Gumbi's killing has been remanded in custody until 6 February 2026, when the case is expected to proceed to trial.

This update follows earlier bail proceedings involving Zimele Mntuyazi Nkwanyana (37), who was arrested in Port Shepstone, KwaZulu-Natal, and later brought before the Rustenburg Magistrates' Court. Nkwanyana first appeared in October 2025 as part of the broader investigation into Gumbi's murder in August 2023.

The case has already seen major developments. Two co-accused, Sibongiseni Ngubane (33) and Thabani Lethukuthula Gwala (30), were previously convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for murder, along with an additional 15 years for possession of an unlicensed firearm. The sentences are running concurrently.

Ben Gumbi, aged 50, was fatally shot outside a Rustenburg coffee shop after stepping out of his vehicle to take a phone call, while his wife remained inside. Investigators were able to link the perpetrators to the crime through surveillance footage and fingerprint evidence, leading to swift arrests and successful prosecution. At the time, the NPA described the killing as "brutal, violent, and callous," underscoring the devastating impact the crime had on both the Gumbi family and the wider community.

small daily habits, BIG community change

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – Visible action speaks louder than promises — and throughout January, Our Ward Matters (OWM) proved exactly that with a series of hands-on community clean-ups across Wards 16 and 17, restoring safety, cleanliness, and pride in shared public spaces. Guided by community leadership and powered by volunteers, residents, and partners, these clean-ups tackled overgrown vegetation, illegal dumping, and safety risks — turning neglected areas into spaces residents can once again feel proud of.

Rivers Area clean-ups | 21 and 22 January 2026
On Wednesday, 21 January, Cllr Tanya Rothman led the Our Ward Matters team in the Rivers area, starting at Rockridge View. The team cut long, overgrown grass, cleared roadside vegetation, and improved visibility along the route toward Little Margate, reducing safety risks for pedestrians and motorists alike. The work continued on Thursday, 22 January, with focused debushing around Nylapies and rubbish removal throughout Ward 17.

Responding to Community Calls | 26 Jan
On 26 January, Our Ward Matters responded to a resident's request for help at the corner of Fiddlewood Place and Cycad Avenue, where dense overgrowth had become a serious safety concern. Armed with pangas, brushcutters, blowers, and determination, the team cleared bushes along boundary walls, removed grass from roadways, cleaned the area thoroughly, and collected all litter. As the work progressed, nearby residents joined in — contributing toward the clean-up and demonstrating real community spirit.

Azaleapark, Selly Park and Ward 16 Action | 27 January
The momentum continued on 27 January, beginning in Azaleapark (Ward 17) along Langeberg Avenue, where grass cutting and debushing helped reduce crime risk and the danger of veld fires from the mountain side. From there, the team moved to Kougaberg Avenue, cleaning the area and loading a skip arranged by Cllr Tanya Rothman in partnership with the RLM Waste Department. The skip was made available for residents, encouraging responsible waste disposal. Later that day, attention turned to Ward 16, at the Manuka Substation near Geelhoutpark SPAR. Thick vegetation had completely obscured visibility, making the area unsafe for pedestrians.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT MAKES IT POSSIBLE
Our Ward Matters carries ongoing costs to keep this vital work going. Residents and businesses are encouraged to support the initiative through donations or sponsorships — whether petrol, brushcutter line, refuse bags, PPE, or financial contributions.

"Small daily habits may seem ordinary, but when practiced with consistency, they create remarkable results that change communities, not just individuals."
— André Van Dyk

HAVE YOUR SAY

Is honesty always the best policy?

Honesty builds trust, strengthens relationships, and supports fairness – but real life isn't always simple. White lies, privacy, and compassion can complicate the picture. Where do you draw the line between truth and tact?

"Yes. Transparency builds trust, accountability, and stronger relationships. Openness improves decision-making, reduces corruption, and encourages engagement in both personal and organisational settings."

Olebogeng Moreotsile, Rustenburg

"Yes, mostly. Honesty matters, but it should be kind and measured — not brutal. Be truthful without oversharing or causing unnecessary harm."

Brigitte Groenewald, Rustenburg

Did you know?

WHY BUGS FLY INTO THE LIGHT... Most people know insects swarm around lights – even flames – but it's not because they love danger. Many night-flying insects navigate by keeping a constant angle to the Moon, which helps them fly straight. Artificial lights confuse this system. A nearby bulb is much closer than the Moon, so maintaining that angle makes the insect spiral inward. Flames and bright lights can trap them in endless loops, sometimes fatally. It's not attraction—it's a navigation error caused by modern lighting colliding with ancient instincts.

Giving back to Môrester

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – Two young local models showed that generosity is always in fashion when they donated school supplies and toys to the Môrester Child and Youth Care Centre on 15 January 2026.

Representing Globe Modelook (GML Models) Rustenburg, Gabi Lummis (18) and Jaiden Brown (9) delivered two school stationery packs from PNA along with teddy bears, helping children start the year with both essential supplies and a little extra comfort.

Platinum Weekly newspaper | SA – Parents are often encouraged to do everything possible to keep their children healthy — especially during cold and flu season. But a recent warning from South African Health Products Regulatory Authority (SAHPRA) reminds us that not all products marketed for children are as safe as they appear.

On 8 January 2026, SAHPRA issued an official notice warning against the sale and use of certain children's "immune booster" products that contain zinc picolinate and/or selenium.

Why the warning?

According to SAHPRA, zinc picolinate and selenium are not permitted ingredients in health supplements for children under the age of 18 under current South African regulations. These substances are listed as not allowed in SAHPRA's official health-supplement guidance for children. Despite this, products containing these ingredients are currently being sold — often labelled as immune boosters — and are promoted to help with:

- colds and flu
- diarrhoea
- skin conditions

Because of these claimed medical benefits,

SAHPRA says these products are medicines, not simple supplements — and they require full registration and approval before they may be sold.

Safety concerns for children

SAHPRA highlighted specific risks associated with these ingredients:

- Zinc picolinate can cause side effects at any supplemental dose, including nausea, vomiting, diarrhoea, headaches, and indigestion. Its absorption in the body is unpredictable, which makes it unsuitable and potentially unsafe for children.
- Selenium, while necessary in very small amounts, can become harmful if intake is too high. SAHPRA warns that children may be at risk of selenium overdose, particularly when supplements are used without medical supervision.

What this means legally

SAHPRA has made it clear that:

- Products containing zinc picolinate or selenium do not qualify as Category D (complementary) medicines for children.
- Selling them as such is illegal.
- These products must instead be registered as Category A medicines, which undergo stricter safety and approval processes.
- All affected products must be withdrawn from the market within six months of the notice.

Advice for health professionals and shops

SAHPRA has instructed:

- Doctors, pharmacists, and retailers to stop selling or dispensing these products.
- All remaining stock to be removed from shelves and storage areas immediately.

Advice for parents and caregivers

Members of the public are urged to:

- Check children's supplements at home for zinc picolinate or selenium.
- Return affected products to the pharmacy, distributor, or supplier where they were purchased.
- Avoid giving children any supplement that claims to treat illnesses unless advised by a healthcare professional.

This warning is not about causing panic — it's about protecting children's health. SAHPRA reminds parents that "natural" or "immune-boosting" labels do not automatically mean a product is safe, especially for young bodies still developing.

Rustenburg Rides for Hope

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – In February 2026, Rustenburg will roar with more than motorbike engines — it will echo with hope.

The "Ride for a Child" charity motorbike event, organised by Pediatric Care Africa, is changing course this year for one very special reason: Caleb, a baby from Nelspruit born with a rare and severe brain condition that causes relentless seizures. Surgery is his only chance. On Wednesday, 18 February 2026, the riders arrive in Rustenburg as part of this national fundraising journey.

Unlike previous years, the 2026 ride is not about distance, but direction — focusing all energy on raising funds for Caleb's life-saving brain surgery in Cape Town. Every rand raised goes directly to his verified BackaBuddy campaign to help cover medical, travel, and recovery costs.

Bikers, businesses, families and residents are encouraged to take note now, spread the word, and get ready to support when the riders roll in.

Because when Thabazimbi shows up, it shows up strong — and for Caleb, that strength could mean a future.

For more information or to get involved, visit www.pediatriccareafrika.org or contact 076 229 5663.
