Easter death toll Doubled

At least 203 people died in road accidents over the Easter weekend in SA, according to preliminary figures released by the Road Traffic Management Corporation (RTMC) on Thursday, 28 April 2011. This is nearly double the 2010 figure of 105 fatalities. Numerous individuals perceive Easter as a time of death due to the disheartening alarm of car accidents over this timeframe – caused primarily by alcohol misuse. In the North West, eleven people were killed in different accidents. The accident featured in this article miraculously did not lead to a fatality. On Monday evening, 25 April 2011 at approximately 19h10, (Rustenburg) a male driving an Audi slammed into the back of a Toyota Tazz on the N4 Highway, between the Rustenburg Waterfall Mall and the Helen Joseph off-ramp.

The outcome: Both cars spun until they overturned, occupants finding themselves helpless and shocked. The cause of the accident is unknown at this stage; however, it is speculated that the Audi misjudged the distance between himself and the Toyota and consequently crashed into the Toyota.

According to the driver of the Toyota, "I was totally overwhelmed by the sudden accident – I did not know what hit me until much later when I calmed down." Police on scene commented that no brake marks were apparent on the tar surface, but they are currently investigating the case.

The Audi comprised of 1 male driver and the Toyota of 4 persons (driver and 3 passengers); they were transported by emergency personnel to respectively the Peglerae- and the Job Shimankana Tabane Hospital. The patients sustained lacerations and abrasions and possible spinal injuries.

Comments received from well known locals: Butler Matlapeng, Rustenburg Local Municipality, heeded the community to be extra aware of dangers of the road. "Do not only watch out for yourself, but also be aware of other drivers and their influence on you. Drive safely and return safely."

Roelof le Roux, Manager of Trauma Rescue, Rustenburg added, "Easter is a difficult period for us, but we stand strong in supporting anyone in distress."
