Vodacom Change the World Programme

Brits-born, 41-year-old Susanna Kotze, or Santie as she is more commonly known, is one of the 10 volunteers selected to take part in the Vodacom Change the World programme.

It was her previous volunteering efforts, passion for working with children and background in remedial education that saw her win the opportunity to volunteer at the Opyk Pathways Therapy and Education Centre.

Opyk, which strives to educate and give voices to children living with severe physical and mental disabilities that prevent them from communicating, has been desperately seeking someone with Santie's skills and experience to help implement its specially-adapted Grade one programme. We asked her a few questions about herself as well as what she hopes to achieve in her role as an educator within this facility:

- Apart from working with children, what are some of your other interests?
I enjoy singing and reading.
- We believe that you have had some previous volunteering experience; can you tell us more about this?
I've volunteered at Opyk as well as at Laerskool Olienpark and an old age home in Brits.
- Who or what would you say has inspired you most to do charity work or volunteer?

I believe that Jesus Christ has taught us to be good to one another.

• Why did you choose Opyk as the NGO that you would most like to help?

In addition to having done volunteer work there previously, I'm also particularly passionate about working with learners who struggle to communicate like other children.

• What three goals would you like to accomplish during your time with Opyk?

As each child requires their own Individual Educational Plan, I would like to adapt the curriculum to each. I would also like to introduce, implement and educate the community about alternative education. And finally I want to give a voice to those who can't speak like others.

• Is there anything more that you would like to add?

I am honoured to have been selected as a volunteer. I will my best to make a difference as far as I can and will continue do so long after the six month programme. I want to give people, like those at Opyk, a voice but also dignity too. To find out more about Santie, the other nine winners and their activities during their six month placements with their host organisations please visit <http://changetheworld.vodacom.co.za> or www.facebook.com/vodacomchangetheworld. Alternatively, you can get regular updates on her progress by SMSing 009 to 31115.
