Six N12 killed on

Klerksdorp/ Potchefstroom – Three members from a Klerksdorp family will be buried on Saturday (7 May 2011) after they died in a horrible car accident on the N12 between Fochville and Potchefstroom on Monday, 2 May 2011.

Nathan Beukes (7 years old), the only surviving victim lost both his parents, Reuben (40) and Natasha (34), as well as his sister Robin (9). He was critically injured during this accident and is currently finding himself in the Garden City Clinic in Johannesburg. According to his grand father, a Klerksdorp resident, he is in a stable condition.

The Beukes family was on their way home after a holiday in Cape Town. After they should have reached their destination, and after numerous unanswered phone calls, the grand parents became wary and phoned the Police.

“After paramedics described a car which was involved in a car crash earlier that day – I knew it was them...”

The Beukes family was described as active, upstanding citizens and they will be sorely missed by friends and family.

Six people were killed in this accident, four of them children aged between ten and fifteen years old, and another woman and child were critically injured, when two light motor vehicles collided head-on on the N12 between Fochville and Potchefstroom.

The cause of the accident and series of events leading up to it remain unclear; however, the Police are currently investigating the accident.

Paramedics arrived at the scene to only find that the two cars had ploughed head-on into one another. The force of the impact caused one of the cars to veer off the road and overturn, eventually coming to a halt on its side on a roadside embankment.

Head-on 1 Dies

Rustenburg – On the 29th of April 2011, two cars collided head-on on the old Johannesburg Road near Aasvoëlkrans approximately 21h00 the evening.

Signs of the impact are visible on the middle line of the road and therefore no speculations as to who was responsible for the car accident is clear. To only worsen this, there were no eye witnesses on scene; however, the Police are investigating the case.

Apparently, a Polo Classic and a Toyota Corolla crashed. The driver of the Polo was declared dead on scene. The two occupants in the Toyota sustained serious injuries including torso- and abdominal injuries. The two occupants, also sustained numerous fractures. Emergency personnel was met with a grim scene – as the impact of the accident left one engine and gearbox next to the road, pieces of metal scattered everywhere and traumatised people needing urgent assistance.

1 Killed, 3 Injured

Ottosdal – A man was killed and three others were injured, one of whom critically, when a heavy goods truck collided with a bakkie at the crossing of the Ottosdal and Dominionville Roads near Klerksdorp on Thursday morning, 5 May 2011.

The cause of the accident and series of events leading up to it remain unclear at this stage and will form the subject of a South African Police Force investigation. Paramedics arrived at the scene only to find that the two vehicles had entered the junction simultaneously and collided.

The bakkie was pushed from the road and skidded to a halt on the shoulder while the truck surged into a field and overturned.

The driver of the bakkie had sustained critical injuries and unfortunately had died prior to the arrival of medics.

A man on the back of the bakkie was thrown from his seat on impact and his body was found near the mangled wreckage. He was in a critical condition, and was incubated and placed on a manual ventilator before he was transported by ambulance to the Tshepong Hospital for the medical attention that he required.

Two occupants of the truck were also seriously injured. Once extricated from their upended vehicle, they were transported by ambulance to the same hospital for further care.
