Driving through ditches & donga

Dear 4x4 fans, this week's exciting article features tips to cross ditches and dongas. Basically, the most important tip I can give you is: Cross the ditch/donga at an angle.

This means one wheel can go into the ditch/donga, which will leave your vehicle with at least 3 wheels supplied with traction.

Also very important: Avoid cross-lifting of wheels. Crossing a donga or ditch requires great caution! If both wheels on one side of the vehicle slide into the donga, you are likely to get stuck and getting out can be quite tricky!

Exiting dongas should also be done at an angle. The angle approach will give you extra lift as opposed to a right-angle approach. Such a direct approach may cause a vehicle to get stuck. A direct straight-on approach may be required where conditions could cause cross-lifting of wheels.
