Horrific Collision on Rex Road

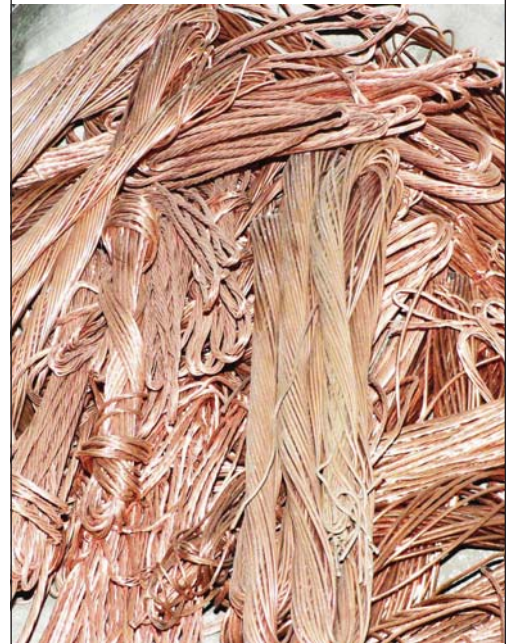

Rustenburg – On Monday afternoon (13 June 2011), motorists was met with a horrific collision when a Ford TDi 2500 apparently crashed into the back of a Corsa bakkie.

The cause of the accident currently under investigation with the SAPS, is unknown at this stage. Alcohol misuse as well as speeding is suspected to have played a role in this accident that occurred approximately 13h30 on the Rex Road close to Kroondal. Both vehicles were travelling in the direction of the Pretoria Road when the two bakkies collided. This resulted in the Ford overturning a few times before coming to a halt next to the road. Both drivers (only occupants in the two vehicles) survived the ordeal. The driver of the Corsa (male) sustained no injuries whilst the driver (male) of the Ford sustained possible head and spinal injuries as well as minor lacerations and abrasions.

Unfortunately, a dog, presumably seated on the front passenger seat, died on scene, most likely during the overturning of the vehicle.
