What did grams say to get gramps to do his chores?

We have an unspoken, understanding love... but fear helps

Yes, I told him I'm going to the bridal expo!

Bulb of the Week: Lilium L.A. Hybrid

If you love the impressive trumpets of Lilium longiflorum (Snow Queen) and the brilliant colours of the Asiatic hybrids, then you will adore the Lily Asiflorum hybrids. As their name suggests this lily was created by crossing Lilium longiflorum (L) with Asiatic hybrids (A). These magnificent specimens can bloom in yellows, pinks, reds, whites, and oranges and their cluster of flowers crown tall (up to 1.7m), robust stems lined with green lance-like foliage. L.A. hybrids are very easy to care for and the rewards you reap from just a little effort are incredible. Plant your lily bulbs in a bed or container as soon as you receive them, as they do not enjoy being out of the soil. Lily bulbs can be placed in the ground or a container from now until late August and they will flower from mid to late summer. Plant some this winter and just wait ... your garden will experience the most magnificent of shows this summer!
