5 Killed & 13 Injured

Klerksdorp – Five men were killed and thirteen others were injured, one man critically, when a school-bus and a sports utility vehicle collided head-on on the N12 near Klerksdorp on Thursday evening (23 June 2011). The cause of the accident and the series of events leading up to it remain unclear and will form the subject of a South African Police Force investigation. Common cause information indicates that the driver of the SUV attempted to affect a U-turn on the N12, turning into the path of the oncoming school-bus, which was ferrying twelve teenage boys on a rugby tour. Paramedics arrived at the scene only to find that the force of the impact ripped apart the SUV and pushed it from the road, while the school bus veered into the veldt. Three of the four men in the SUV at the time of the collision were killed on impact, their bodies were flung from the mangled wreckage. A fourth man, who was also flung from the vehicle, was in a critical condition. He later died as a result of his injuries in the Tshepong State Hospital. A man, thought to be a teacher, sustained critical injuries and his condition deteriorated drastically. Advanced life support paramedics incubated the man and placed him on a manual ventilator but he sadly also passed away at the scene. His body was entrapped in the mangled wreckage and had to be cut free by fire-fighters. Another teacher was also in a critical condition; he was treated and stabilised on scene, along with the twelve seriously injured teens, before they were transported to a private medical facility in Klerksdorp for intensive care.

6 Killed in Horror Crash

Klerksdorp – Six people were killed when a light motor vehicle collided with a sports utility vehicle on the N12 highway between Wolmaransstad and Klerksdorp during Saturday evening (25 June 2011) approximately 19h10 near Bona-Bona Lodge. The cause of the accident is unknown at this stage, but the Police are investigating the case. Apparently, an errant party strayed from their allocated lane, causing the head-on collision. Both vehicles skidded to a halt near the initial point of impact. Paramedics arrived at the scene only to find that a light motor vehicle (Hyundai Accent) had caught fire, flames completely engulfing the vehicle. Paramedics further found the remains of four adults in the vehicle;

all burnt beyond recognition. Two men in the SUV sustained critical injuries and died prior to the arrival of the medics. Patric Solizwe, a 55-year-old whom is suspected to be the driver and Lentikile Mmusi (28), died on the scene. One man (30) was in a critical condition, having sustained severe head-and chest trauma. He was incubated by advanced life support paramedics at the roadside before he was transported via ambulance to a hospital in Wolmaransstad for further medical care. The N12 was closed while emergency service personnel cleared the scene. A culpable Homicide case has been opened and investigations are in process.
