Exploring the World of Words

Mr. Pieter Louw, Unit Manager of Rustenburg Public/ Community Library for the past 25 years

Rustenburg – Do you enjoy reading? If your answer is yes, then why not visit the Rustenburg Public/ Community Library which is located at the corner of Thabo Mbeki and Heystek Streets – for some educational insights into the wonderful world of books.

The library caters for a wide variety of tastes for both young and old alike – or for an avid newspaper reader wishing to catch up with the latest news... The options are endless!

According to the library's Unit Manager – Mr. Pieter Louw – the facility opened its doors to the public in 1984 and is now recognized as the information hub of the Platinum-rich city. "We own an extremely wide range of books and other materials that people can make use of," said Mr. Louw. "We have reference books, study books, non-fiction and fiction books, audio books, CDs as well as a wide collection of children's books. We also have student text books and study guides. People can also go through a wide range of newspapers within the library," added Mr. Louw, who has been running the library for nearly 25 years now.

"We are sometimes very busy with campaigns that promote a culture of reading literature and we commemorate Shakespeare's birthday in April each year. Our children's section is very vibrant and we often do puppet shows at schools and at the library to create interest," added Mr. Louw.

The Rustenburg Public/ Community Library operates from 08h00 to 17h00 from Mondays to Fridays, and from 09h00 to 13h00 on Saturday. It is closed on Sundays.

The mission of the Rustenburg Public/ Community Library is to render a dynamic library and information service to the community of Rustenburg in order to improve their quality of life. In light of this, it includes the provision and management of library and information services for Rustenburg to ensure community access to these services for academic, business and personal development purposes.

So, reader... Why not visit the library?
