Homage paid to victims of farm attacks over two decades in SA Book tells shocking story of 2 617 attacks

Treurgrond – 20 jaar van plaasaanvalle in Suid-Afrika, was recently launched to the public to pay tribute to the victims of farm attacks over a 20-year period in South Africa. The proceeds of the Afrikaans books that are sold will be used to distribute copies of the English version, titled Land of sorrow – 20 years of farm attacks in South Africa, abroad.

Several victims or family members of victims of farm attacks told their stories. Madeleine van den Berg told how she and her husband were attacked on their smallholding near Cullinan in July 2009. She was locked in a closet and her husband Piet was shot during the attack. He died of his wounds. Their house was also set on fire. Their story is recorded as incident 2 447 in Treurgrond.

The book tells the story of 1 363 murders that were committed in 2 617 attacks on farms and smallholdings and has an age restriction of 18. It pays homage to the black and white farmers and farm workers and their families whose lives were lost and/or destroyed due to the attacks. The book was compiled by Dr Dirk Hermann, Deputy General Secretary of Solidarity, and Maj. Gen. Chris van Zyl of TLU SA and is published by Kraal-Uitgewers.

AfriForum has already ordered 1 000 copies of the English version of the book. The book will be distributed to embassies, international media houses, the United Nations and other international bodies. ...Issued by Solidarity
