Crushed to death between rocks!

Brits – A very intricate tension filled rescue mission, turned out very disappointing, when the victim to this freak accident died. Police are investigating the circumstances in which a man succumbed to his injuries after spending six days trapped in-between massive rocks.

According to the SAPS, 29 year-old Kabelo Abel Sesola of Oukasie went missing from his home on Wednesday 7 September and it was never reported to the local police.

On Tuesday 13 September, a Zimbabwean national visiting the caves outside Oukasie noticed the man under a big rock inside the cave and rushed to the police in shock to report his spine chilling discovery. Police went to the scene and could not retrieve the body due to heavy rocks that entrapped the man's body. It was only on Wednesday morning that assistance was sought from local contractors. A heavy duty drill machine and compressor was used to cut the rock to retrieve Abel's body. Rescue workers from Hartebeespoort, the Madibeng Fire Brigade and several community members joined hands in a commendable effort.

The deceased was identified by his uncle, who informed the police that he (the deceased) always preferred praying in that cave.

No foul play is suspected and the police are still investigating.
