Rustenburg – It was a hive of activity at the Rustenburg Civic Centre on Saturday September 24 as people from various walks of life converged for the 2011 edition of the Mr. and Miss Rustenburg beauty pageant.

Goitseona Selogilwe was crowned Miss Rustenburg while Tuma Monaisa walked away with the Mr Rustenburg title. Renay Beukes – who is only 14-years-old – was crowned Miss Rustenburg Teen in a glittering event that provided moments to remember for those who were fortunate enough to attend. The event, which turned out to be a roaring success, was organised by the Hlompho Modelling Agency under the leadership of Mami Tsobo.

Miss Rustenburg 2011 winner, Goitseona Selogilwe was overwhelmed with joy at winning the title. She said, "I knew that I had won once the crowd started chanting my name. However, it was a tough contest. I am happy that I won and I will make the most of it. Well done to everyone who had the guts to stand before the judges and perform their best!"

Mr. Rustenburg, Tuma Monaisa, says he would take up modelling as a career. "The competition was very stiff and it was a huge challenge," says Tuma.

Renay Beukes (Miss Rustenburg Teen) said her education is still her main concern. "I am 14 and I have to put my studies first. However, I am just having fun and enjoying life!" said Renay.

Mami encouraged the models to adopt a professional attitude as this would take them far in any industry. "Modelling is something that needs passion, determination and commitment. It can be a platform for you to realise your dreams," she added.
