'People should not die on the roads'

Rustenburg – The honourable Minister of Transport – Mr Sbu Ndebele – has raised his concern over the increasing number of people who are losing their lives of the road due to accidents that can be avoided.

Delivering a keynote address at the launch of the Road Safety Level Crossing Project which was held in Rustenburg on Thursday 13 October, Minister Ndebele said: "society should explore ways of reducing the high rate of fatalities that occur each day on South African roads."

The event was also attended by the North West MEC for Public Safety Desbo Mohono, as well as the executive mayors of the Bojanala Platinum District Municipality and the Rustenburg Local Municipality, respectively Cllr Louis Diremelo and Cllr Mpho Khunou. Minister Ndebele said, "People should not die on the roads in such large numbers. We should continue to look at ways of making sure that our roads are safer. Today's launch is the first and will be followed by a series of events which will all focus on level crossings." The project is a collaborative effort of Transnet Freight Rail (TFR), Road Traffic Management Corporation (RTMC), the Rustenburg Local Municipality and the North West Department of Public Safety.

Over the past three years, a total of 30 level crossing accidents have occurred in Rustenburg, resulting in 52 injuries and 8 fatalities. Most of these accidents have been attributed to non observance of safety signs by motorists and pedestrians.
