“We had a very interesting film week, with an interesting mix of works from art house cinema to avant-garde cinema. It was quite diversified. I think we had a film week that has put the Bojanala District in the National Art discourse.

“We were very pleased to be graced by high profile artists and movers and shakers. We hope that even more artists will attend in the coming year.

“Bojanala Platinum District Municipality Film Week showcased a wide variety of local, national, and international films. Its main objective was to bring communities together to increase awareness and understanding of the film worlds.”

“So far so good. Everything went well. We did not anticipate the success. We are very pleased with the interaction received from the communities side. Actors that came to conduct the workshops gave us a thumbs up.

“We have now given the people who attended the workshops assignments that will be submitted very soon. Whoever performs and achieves the highest quality in their assignments handed in will be taken to the next level. “Our aim is that before the end of next year, we would have produced a film – a product of people who we trained during the 2011 Film Week.”

“As the Municipality, we are very happy with the outcome of this project. Though it was its first time it was being held, the organization of the whole Film Week went very well. The event was build with the cooperation from different stakeholders, taking hands and striving for excellence. The Municipality hosted a road show throughout the five Municipalities, where they marketed and also raised awareness about the Film Week.

Ten young people were selected from each Municipality within the Bojanala district, and all aspects of the film making process were introduced to them. The Municipality’s goal is to see at least 5 people earning a living out of this initiative in the near future. We want everyone involved to build on this experience each and every year.”
