Stars support 16 Days of activism

Rustenburg – Platinum Stars allowed all women and children free entrance to their Absa Premiership clash with AmaZulu at the Royal Bafokeng Stadium on Wednesday, November 30. The club made the announcement in support of the 16 Days of Activism against violence towards women and children campaign that runs from November 25 to December 10.

“As a club we abhor any form of violence at all, but especially against those more vulnerable in our society... the women and children. This gesture shows our solidarity with the 16 Days of Activism campaign and we hope that fans come out in their numbers to show their support for the fight as well. We can never accept violence towards women and children as part of our culture as South Africans and we will continue as a club to highlight this important issue,” says Platinum Stars Supporters’ Co-coordinator & Media Relations head Aubrey Molobi.

“As a club we value our community above all else and know the vital role that women play in keeping a family unit together. All of the staff and players at Platinum Stars feel very strongly about the 16 Days of Activism campaign and we hope that this small gesture on our part helps to highlight this evil within our society,” Molobi says.

Schools basketball finals

Phokeng/ Rustenburg – The National Basketball Association’s (NBA) partnership with the Royal Bafokeng Nation aimed at developing basketball talent in the North West Province, is set for the first ever Royal Bafokeng Sports Jr. NBA League Finals scheduled to take place at the Royal Bafokeng Sports Palace on Saturday December 3, 2011.

Since the launch of the program in May 2011, more than 8000 children from 18 schools across the five Bafokeng regions have taken part in regular basketball coaching sessions held by the NBA Development Team of Technical Director / Head Coach Joby Wright, and Development Coaches Patrick Engelbrecht and Franck Traore, teaching the fundamentals of the game.

“We are very proud of the work the kids have put into this first year and the progress they have made in such a short period of time. From never having set foot on a basketball court to playing a full game under the whistle is a tremendous achievement and testament to the passion the kids in the North West have developed for the game,” said NBA Vice President for Development in Africa, Amadou Gallo Fall.
