

Air Products hands over Toy Library Trailer

Rustenburg – Air Products' long term corporate social investment (CSI) beneficiary, the Touch Toy Library in Rustenburg, is able to touch the lives of even more young children in the province, thanks to the donation of the Toy Library trailer on Friday, 24 March 2017. The Touch Toy Library has received long term ongoing support from Air Products to expose children at early childhood development (ECD) centres to the basic skills required for education through play. This relationship started in 2012 when Air Products was introduced to the Touch Community Network by Cotlands whom Air Products has been supporting for a number of years. Air Products' core CSI focus is on the youth and education in the communities in which they operate and with the expansion of the Rustenburg Facility in 2012, they wanted to extend their CSI initiatives to the North West Province.

The Touch Community Network celebrates children's right to play and they strive to see children in the community thrive in their formative years through play based development opportunities. Besides the Touch Toy Library's Active Learning Centre in Rustenburg, a core part of what they do is to render an outreach service to ECD centres in disadvantaged areas in the North West Province and the new trailer will be used to enhance this important service. According to Josua Le Roux, Chairman of Air Products' CSI committee, Air Products donated funds to the Touch Toy Library over the past five years – the first donation was to purchase toys for the Toy Library, followed by the donation of a vehicle in 2015 which is used for the outreach service. Le Roux further commented, "We believe that the most recent donation, the Touch Toy Library trailer and accessories will go a long way to make the 'go-&-play' sessions for the children more varied and enjoyable". Jeanette Little, Toy Librarian from Touch Community Network said; "Air Products' continued support has enabled us to expand the Touch Toy Library and offer children an opportunity to borrow toys, puzzles and games as well as increase our impact in the schools that we visit. Furthermore, it enables us to work with more children at one time, through providing additional equipment and essential educational toys that are crucial to our work. Not only does this ultimately support their learning through planned play activities, but teachers are trained as well in using toys more effectively for educational use. We are proud of the way we present our 'go-&-play' outreaches as well as our 'come-&-play' sessions at our Active Learning Centre". The Touch Community Network in Rustenburg, situated at 143 Bethlehem Drive, has a toy library and is an active learning centre where individuals can register to borrow toys. Structured play sessions are conducted by a toy librarian at 'go & play' and 'come & play' sessions with early learning centres who have registered with the library.
