BOGUS LIVESTOCK SELLERS ARRESTED

Rustenburg/ Makwassie – The provincial organised unit and the police in Wolmaransstad arrested three suspects on Friday, 5 January, on charges of robbery and attempted robbery committed in Makwassie.

"The three suspects aged 29, 30 and 34, were nabbed after a 36-year old man from Rustenburg informed the police that he was robbed at Boskuil on Thursday, 4 January," says brigadier Sabata Mokgwabone.

He was responding to an online advertisement about livestock for sale. He met and negotiated the sale deal with the suspects who claimed to be farmers.

They drove to Boskuil where three people emerged from the bushes, threatened and ultimately robbed him of his firearm, cash, cell phone and wallet before leaving him stranded.

The police in the province urge those who were previously conned by people who pretended to be selling livestock and vehicles, but ended up being robbed, to call the investigation officers, D/WO Samuel Kutumela on 082-338 2593 or lieutenant colonel Ismail Dawood on 082-319 4471.
