

ANARCHY IN KOSTER

Koster – A rampaging group of protestors looted and burnt two houses, including a guest house belonging to the local mayor of Koster, councillor Kim Medupe. The protestors left a trail of destruction in the business area and destroyed selected properties in residential areas on Wednesday morning, 23 May. They set alight five cars and damaged other cars. The total damage in the area - in the millions - is not yet established. When asked what could have sparked such violent protests, police spokesperson sergeant Ofentse Mokgadi told the Platinum Weekly: “We are made to understand that this was about service delivery. They burnt everything to ashes,” Mokgadi said. The violent protest started as early as 3am. The police calmed the situation around midday. “No arrests have been made so far but they are imminent,” Mokgadi said. He said the mayor was safe but “obviously we cannot disclose her whereabouts”. The violent protests in Koster are one of many that have placed the North West in the spotlight. In a press release, the Kgetleng Rivier local municipality condemned the destruction.

Flames and smoke! A common sight in the North West.
