LET'S HELP MIHLA

Mihla

Rustenburg – A group of women heeded the call to support Mihla Engelbrecht by staging a netball and cricket challenge on Friday 1 June, in Rustenburg.

Sixteen netball teams and eight cricket teams pitted their skills against each other during the event held at the EPIQ action sport centre. The Queens of Chaos represented #teammihla on the day. Inspired by the little angel, as Mihla is affectionately called, they won all three their games on the netball court.

People from all over South Africa are opening their hearts and wallets to raise funds for little Mihla of Rustenburg who was diagnosed CNS embryonal neoplasm, stage four brain cancer. This rare form of cancer, of which the diagnosis has been devastating to Mihla's parents Rudo and Shani Engelbrecht, is known as neuroblastoma and can only be treated successfully in America. Mihla was diagnosed at age three. Many Samaritans have since then launched fundraising campaigns to champion for this little fighter.

Mihla has undergone surgery and had a near total resection of the tumour. Multi-agent chemotherapy was proposed to allow Mihla to be at least five years old before receiving full brain and spinal radiation. Her current protocol ends on 19 December this year. After the chemo, they will be travelling to New Jersey. Mihla's accommodation is confirmed at the Ronald McDonald Charity house in New Jersey, and all treatments must be paid in full before any work would commence.

"Our hearts are full of trust that Mihla will be going to Grade 1 in 2020. We will also continue with our fundraisers and marketing of the Mihla Charity Trust, to give hope to families that must go through similar scenarios. We will do for one what we wish we could do for millions," Shani said in an interview with the Platinum Weekly.

CHANTEL'S REACH-OUT

Rustenburg – A programme started by the current Mrs Rustenburg Chantel Krause in May this year, called Reach-Out, is yielding positive results for several deserving beneficiaries.

The programme includes the Winter Drive whereby donations are raised and then distributed to the needy. Already, the programme has reached out to two schools including Laerskool David Brink, where they donated new school shoes, socks, gloves and tights. The goods were donated by Professional Schoolwear and community members and representatives: Naomi Pasino of StaanSaam Rustenburg, Adelé & Team, Marine, Margaret, Wendy (LifeLine), Lariozette, Matitza and Jessica.

Laerskool Proteapark received shoes, socks, gloves and tracksuits. Jabula Engineering Supplies was the main sponsor. Rustie Kidz Rustenburg also received more than 80 blankets.

The project will also include a Reach-Out to three additional schools in Rustenburg.

A feeding scheme is also on the cards. This would entail a daily breakfast and lunch.

Chantel Krause urges the community to pledge donations of any kind. "We need your support! We accept any goods. I would like to thank my amazing team Jakkie Goosen (my mother), Bennie Goosen (my dad), Stephen Krause (my husband) and all my anonymous sponsors. I couldn't have done it without all of you. And finally, the community for all your love and support," said Chantel in an interview with the Platinum Weekly.

Bederf jou diertjies GESOND

Rustenburg – Reinett van der Walt het die Vroue Landbou Unie (VLU) Kashané aand-tak voorverlede week meer kom vertel van diersorg en watter produkte die beste sal wees vir jou vierpotige kindertjies.

Hier bedank gasvrou Daleen Roos vir Reinett van der Walt vir haar leersame praatjie.
