Hartbeespoort/ Orange Farm – Since its inception in 2015, Ubuntu Pre-school has been a safe haven and educational refuge for children; a place where hard working parents could entrust their children to.

On Wednesday 7 November, members of the community and parents alike were invited to join Ubuntu Pre-school for tea and celebration of its graduating class. The little ones astounded attendees with the knowledge and skills that they had acquired during 2018!

These children have a thirst for knowledge and the principal and staff members strive unconditionally to give them the education and preparation that they need to be ready to graduate and attend primary school. This sometimes means that the staff have to work from very early in the mornings till very late at night to accommodate the parents who start work early or come home late.

The school also provides their children with porridge, morning tea and sandwiches.

There are currently approximately 60 children who attend the school, but due to their parents' financial difficulties some of them are not able to attend on a full-time basis. About 100 other children from the community can still not attend the school.

Ubuntu pre-school was proud to announce that five of its students will be graduating to primary school this year and after an article in Platinum Weekly of 2 November, companies and members of the community assisted these five students with some of the necessary items that they will need for their grade R year.

A great big "thank you" to Pen en Ink Rustenburg for providing stationary that they will need and Embroider Eze for personalizing the schoolbags. The school also received toys and colouring books.

Principal at Ubuntu Pre-School Pumla Gwilikana said: "I believe if you knock, a door will be opened, and we want to open many doors for our kids. We want our kids to have hope and to go out and shine with the seeds that were planted at this school. Since we started the school, you can feel that there is a change in not just the students but also in the greater community."

The school started from humble beginnings and now has a building where they strive to create a happy and safe environment where learners can learn and play. They also hope to have running water and electricity in the future.

The school will be hosting an open day for parents on 24 November and would like to invite you to come and see what they offer children.
