WORKSHOP EMPOWERS SMALL BUSINESSES

Rustenburg – Owners of small, micro and medium enterprises (SMMEs) often lack the skills to enable them to participate fully in South Africa's economic activities.

Some businesses owners do not have the vital information about how to approach Sector Education and Training Authorities (SETAs) for support on how to expand their ventures.

It is against this background that scores of SMME and informal business owners converged at the Ben Marais Hall on Friday 29 March for a workshop focusing on skills development.

The purpose of the workshop, which was facilitated by Capita Central Invest, was to empower business owners with the tools to grow their entities so that they become profitable. Representatives from Small Enterprise Development Agency (SEDA) and the National Youth Development Agency (NYDA) advised business owners how to seek funding and to make sure they comply with the relevant laws of their industries.

In an interview with Platinum Weekly, Capita Central Invest director general Chris Powane said: "The event was a success. Many local small business owners are now aware that they can approach SETA in Rustenburg for advice."
