R23 per litre for fuel in June?

SA – With a massive increase expected to take fuel prices beyond R23 per litre this June, drivers must once again tighten their belts.

The Automobile Association (AA) has not at the time of going to print (25 May 2022) issued a press release with the exact fuel and diesel increase yet. Watch this space!

Motorists will also be squeezed even tighter as more people return to the office. Carpooling can be a way to ease this burden and help everyday South Africans to save money.

Rustenburg – If you think that you have heard it all, you are wrong. A gang of about eight people, including a woman, illegally entered properties in Protea Park, and after throwing a bag or two of what might be compost onto their lawns, started large sums of money.

A woman staying in Protea Park went through a horrific ordeal after being intimidated and threatened by 'supposed compost dealers' on Wednesday 25 May.

"I made a guick stop at home at around 13:40 and was busy inside when I heard my front gate open. When I came out, I saw the people standing in my yard," she told Platinum Weekly. She noticed that they were throwing something onto her lawn and asked them what they were doing. They informed her that they were composting her lawn. She told them to stop doing it as she did not ask them to do it. Much to her surprise, they told her that they used 78 bags and that she now owes them R3,900.

Her first reaction was to refuse to pay, but she then noticed that there were at least six people, surrounding her and that they all had shovels and pitch forks. They pretended to work the compost into the lawn, but she could clearly pick more like sand collected next to the road than up that they used the shovels and pitch forks to intimidate her. A few others were going from house to house in her street pulling on the gates, to see if they can find an open gate.

"I told them that I don't have that kind of money," she said. One of the men started swearing at her, telling her that she is taking the food from his family's mouths. She offered to give them a up bakkie with a canopy," the Platinum Weekly rake to collect the compost. They flatly refused and called 'their boss' on one of their cellphones. on the lookout for them. If you notice them, don't Scared for her life, she eventually agreed confront them. Contact the police and your local transfer and they left when they got the proof. She immediately went to a family members' home for safety. She also called the bank to try and reverse the payment, but they could unfortunately not help her.

At around 16:30 she received a call from her husband who said that there are people at their home who claim that she ordered compost and that she never paid them. She told him about intimidating the homeowners for the ordeal earlier on. He then refused to make another payment to them.

They then also started threating him, telling him that they will be returning with more people and guns - all the while taking videos of him with their cellphones. He phoned the police and they Susan Havenga, staying close to these victims, also came face to face with these intruders. Her gardener alerted her that people just entered the yard and started throwing 'compost' on the grass. She confronted them and told them to immediately stop what they were doing. They spoke to her in Afrikaans, but with a thick accent. I told them I wasn't interested but they told me that they already poured it onto my lawn and that I had to give them R3,000. Luckily, I wasn't alone and after giving them a proper piece of my mind they left," Havenga said.

"The compost bags are small, and it looks compost," she said. The 'going rate' according to these intruders, is R50 per bag.

According to the victims, they are a gang of about eight, including a woman. Two of them stay outside the property, whilst six of them enter the property to intimidate and threaten their victims. "They travel in a very old banged was told. The community should be aware and to pay them R1,500. She did an electronic security group for assistance.

3,000 JOBS ON THE WAY

Pilanesburg - In a press statement released by the Office of the Premier on 17 May 2022, the North West premier, Kaobitsa Bushy Maape labelled the forthcoming investment of R9.4 billion by Sedibelo Platinum Mine in its operations at Pilanesberg Platinum Mine near Moruleng in Moses Kotane Local Municipality, as a vote of confidence in the North West Province.

The province experienced enormous economic setbacks as a result of the Covid-19 pandemic resulting in a decline of 7.6% in provincial GDP for 2020. Premier Maape said this investment is a step in the right direction in resuscitating

"The unemployment rate stands at 33% in the province. We are engaging several stakeholders and in particular the private sector to work hand in glove with us to address the challenges of unemployment and poverty confronting our province," remarked premier Maape.

Sedibelo Platinum Mine management indicated that over the next five years, up to 3,000 jobs will be created by the development of an underground mine and of a Kell plant at Pilanesberg Platinum Mine. Chief executive officer, Erich Clarke, indicated that in addition to the jobs, this investment will create various economic opportunities for local businesspeople. "Our plans also entail various projects such as housing and investing in Social and Labour Plans. We will also be investing in a new Kell plant which uses new technology to extract the metals from the ore without the use of a smelter. This technology will reduce carbon emissions by 80%. About 65% of our workforce is from this area and we are looking at increasing it while creating opportunities for the youth and entrepreneurs," said Clarke.

The illegal reptile trade in Rustenburg

Rustenburg - A reader recently alerted us about further the life cycle of plants and keep animal yet another sale of indigenous reptiles. The hotspots are mostly along the R556 and R510 near Sun City as well as on the N4 close to Majakaneng. Animals like turtles, snakes and chameleons are being sold to tourists and people passing by.

"It really breaks my heart seeing these poor animals. They are often very dehydrated and clinging to life when they try and sell them," the reader said

which it was kept

This illegal trade is most active on weekends when tourists visit the area. According to the reader, the sellers will approach you pretending to sell fruit and then whip out the poor reptile.

The National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (NSPCA) confirmed that the trade of these reptiles is illegal. "There are two aspects to the illegality of trading these animals. First is the issue of the cruelty aspect of the trade, with which the NSPCA deals, and second is the issue of permitting, which is what Nature Conservation deals with," NSPCA public Relations Officer Keshvi

During this ordeal, the animal's wellbeing is never taken into account. Immediate concerns include the mishandling (and injury thereof) of animals who are stuffed into uncomfortable spaces and forced into uncomfortable positions like pockets, plastic bottles or containers. This causes the animals to become highly distressed. They are denied food and water. It is also sad when you take into account that these animals are caught from the wild and to suffering a life in captivity. This is if they don't succumb to the injuries and conditions sustained from their poaching and being traded first.

"There's also a wider issue of the global social and environmental responsibilities that we must consider. Removing wild animals from their natural habitats negatively affects delicate ecosystems and biodiversity which rely on those species to populations in check. Habitat destruction and the trade in wild animals are the two largest threats to wild animals worldwide," said Nair.

It is illegal to remove an indigenous species from the wild as well as to keep wild-caught indigenous animals in captivity. Both activities are transgressions in terms of the National Environmental Management: Biodiversity Act as well as provincial legislation - with both transgressions relating to wildlife trafficking.

When people buy animals from these traders, they are encouraging a crime, because as long as there is a demand, there will be a means of creating a supply.

Furthermore, it is illegal to purchase any indigenous wildlife without already having the required permit which is not applicable to and cannot be used for wild-caught or poached animals. If the animal is found in a physical condition that indicates that the animal is or may have suffered, charges are laid under the Animals Protection Act no 71 of 1962. If the animal is found kept under conditions which are inhumane, charges may also be laid under the Animals Protection Act no 71 of 1962.

Anybody taking part (including members of public that buy and transport the animal) can be charged under the relevant Nature Conservation Ordinance, as well as National legislation, thereby holding them liable to paying a hefty fine and/or being further subjected to imprisonment.

The public is also urged to not confront these traders as they can be dangerous. "We have paid a visit to the hotspots on many occasions, and on several times, they have thrown rocks at us and pulled knives on us. So, we caution the community to rather contact the SPCA if they see people trying to sell wild animals next to the road," said Rustenburg SPCA manager Marisa Kruger.

Even when a member of public wants to help the animals, they must never buy the animals - however it can be reported to the NSPCA via 011 907 3590 or directly to the NSPCA's Wildlife Protection Unit via wild4@nspca.co.za and wild6@nspca.co.za.

You can also contact the Rustenburg SPCA on 014 5923181 or on their emergency number 072 933 7723.

This can enable them can take action immediately if necessary as well as further advise witnesses accordingly. Complaints of urgency should be reported telephonically and not via email.

members of the N4 Cluster Movement to raise their concerns by following proper channels of communication instead of disrupting traffic through unpredictable protest actions.

On Thursday 19 May, members of the movement blocked the N4 freeway between Majakaneng and Moonooi and marched to the mining company where they handed a memorandum of grievances. N4 Cluster Movement chairperson Solly Soka said the protest was held to push Sibanye to avail more employment opportunities for locals.

Public Order Police (POP) fired rubber bullets to maintain public order during a confrontation between members of the N4 Cluster Movement and another group attempting to prevent the march. Said police spokesperson brigadier Sabata Mokgwabone: "During the incident, one person was reportedly injured. A case of public violence has been registered for investigation and police are maintaining presence in the area.'

Bakwena Platinum Corridor Concessionaire, who were forced to close the N4 because of the protest at around 09h00, later issued a statement on Facebook to motorists at 15h55: "N4 has been reopened both directions between Majakaneng and Mooinooi and is safe to travel.

Executive vice president investor relations and corporate affairs at Sibanye Stillwater James was overlooking members of the Majakaneng community when it comes to employment. "We have formally established community engagement structures with recognised representatives. This group is not a recognised community representative group. They are free to follow protocol and raise their concerns through the established and agreed structures, but we believe there are personal motives behind this. We will not be intimidated or coerced in this way. We will continue to create value for all legitimate stakeholders through our actions,' Wellsted said. Wellsted said they had established a good working relationship with Majakaneng Unemployment Forum to make sure the majority of labour sourced is from the local communities.

Wellsted - who also cited the company's Social and Labour Plan (SLP) projects as proof that Sibanye was committed towards improving the livelihoods of their host community - said the mining company is aiming to invest 1.5% of declared dividends in social upliftment projects. Projects currently being implemented by Sibanye Stillwater as part of their SLP include the construction of the Majakaneng School sports fields and the extension of Majakaneng Clinic.

The mining company is also in the process of constructing the Marikana Community Health Centre (CHC)

8 Learners seriously injured

Rustenburg - Several parents' worst fear came true on Tuesday 24 May, when they were notified that their kids were involved in an accident.

Laerskool Dawid Brink's rugby teams travelled to Hartbeespoort to participate in a friendly match at Laerskool Generaal Hendrik Schoeman. They were on their way back, traveling along the N4 when the left rear tyre of their bus carrying 50 children aged 10 to 13, burst. The accident occurred around 8pm close to Kroondal. The driver made every attempt to avoid oncoming traffic and to keep control of the bus, but it capsized, spun around and came to a standstill on its side, facing the opposite direction.

The reports from Vaal Maseru, the company who owns the bus, indicated that the bus was not speeding and was traveling at 85km per hour in a 120km zone when the accident occurred. The lower speed definitely limited the severity of the accident. Emergency services swiftly arrived on scene. The learners and educators who sustained serious injuries were taken to Life Peglerae and Medicare Hospital in Rustenburg. Other learners with minor injuries were treated and released at the accident scene. Fortunately, there were no fatalities. The school is offering counselling for the learners, teachers and parents affected by the accident. Eight learners and an educator sustained serious injuries and at time of going to print were still in In a statement by Laerskool Dawid Brink, the school expressed their gratitude to the community for their support and assistance at the scene

They also received various offers from the community to contribute to the expenses incurred by the school as a result of the accident as well as the medical expenses of the learners who is not covered by a medical aid. A trust account was created for these contributions.

The North West Department of Education, member of executive council Mmaphefo Matsemela wished the educators and learners a speedy recovery: "On behalf of the department, we would like to wish those who sustained serious injuries a speedy recovery. It is an unfortunate and regrettable incident our learners and teachers had to experience. We truly wish them a full recovery."

"This is a difficult process, and you have to follow the steps perfectly. Blades need to be strong and sharp otherwise you just have a piece to hang on a wall that can't be used," says bladesmith Stephan Fourie.

"When starting out it is important that you do your research. Join the forging communities on social media and learn from the experts. I am lucky that Els was my mentor when I first started out."

Knife making is more than just heating steel, it is about taking a block of steel, and shaping it into the picture you have in your head. When you buy a custom-made blade, you aren't paying for steel - you are paying for the hard work, skill and time that goes into each blade.

Considering the hours required to make a knife by hand, these knives cannot be massproduced, and each item is completely unique and that does not come cheap. Glencore, committed to creating progress together

North West and Limpopo - In 2021, Glencore values as Glencore which continue to work closely with Ferroalloys partnered with the Imbumba Foundation with their local communities in order to roll out initiatives and the aim of keeping young girls in school through sanitary towel donations. The partnership was sparked by the alarming rate of young girls who miss school due to a lack of access to sanitary towels.

Since the partnership, over 500,000 sanitary pads were handed over to more than 10,000 girls at 57 local schools in Limpopo and North West.

On 5 May 2022, Glencore and the Imbumba Foundation kick started the second year of their partnership by distributing over 40,000 sanitary towels to more than 800 girls at the Bakwena and Charora Secondary Schools in the North West Province.

"At Glencore we pride ourselves in being of service to our communities and today is a day of celebration for us all as we embark on this journey of fighting sanitary pad poverty in our local schools. I want to thank Imbumba for walking with us on this journey because I know this support goes a long way in making a real change," said enterprise and supplier development superintendent for Glencore Ferroalloys, Charlin Ntuli.

The two organisations found great synergy in their commitment to making a difference in South African communities. Imbumba, which established their Caring4Girls programme in 2012 has empowered over 1.5 million girls across South Africa and share the same Extracts of press release programmes that directly respond to their needs.

In addition to these donations, Glencore has also made a nurse available to help educate the girls on menstrual hygiene and puberty as required. Reading material educating teenagers on puberty, menstrual cycles and how to use sanitary pads were also made available to the young girls.

Actor and TV Personality, Clement Maosa who is popularly known as 'Kwaito' from the SABC 1 soap opera 'Skeem Saam', attended the handover to give some words of encouragement to the young girls.

"Coming from a rural area and school in Limpopo, we seldom had people visiting our school to motivate us and we didn't see a lot of successful people that we could look up to. I am here today as a testimony to show you all that a young person who comes from where you are right now can reach their dreams despite their background. Never let your surroundings discourage you, your future is in your hands. I am where I am today because I wanted to prove to myself and to those that came after me that it is possible," said actor Clement Maosa.

Through this initiative and many others, Glencore continues to remain committed to creating progress together in their communities and beyond.

Guest speaker and SABC1's 'Skeem Saam' actor Clement Moasa 'Kwaito challenging the stigma around the knowledge of sanitary towels as member of the opposite gender, in addition addressing the impact and significance of sanitary towels precisely on under-privileged girl children's education and confidence.

Poll: When you buy food... do you check the labels?

Food labels can help you to distinguish between unhealthy and healthier options. Does this play a role when you do grocery shopping?

Yes. If you do not, you will not be able to find out if it is expired or not. Checking foods such as milk, yoghurt and bread helps a person to make an informed decision.

Sunette Viljoen

Yes. I check most of the time and if it's not visible, I leave it. Buying food that is beyond the expiry date is something that all of us must try to avoid.

OUR FRIDAY FUN FACT

Did you know?

In the late 1700s, a large percentage aristocrats feared eating tomatoes. After a series of deaths, believed to be after the consumption of tomatoes, it was dubbed "the poison apple".

In truth, wealthy Europeans used pewter plates on which the tomatoes were served. The plates were high in lead content, and due to the acidy content of tomatoes and being placed on the plates, the fruit would leach lead from the plate - resulting in lead poisoning.

SUNDOWNS EYE SECOND TREBLE

SA – With the DStv Premier League title now in their trophy cabinet, Mamelodi Sundowns are well on course to win three domestic titles in one season. Few will doubt that in terms of performance. Sundowns have been a cut above the rest on the field of play this season. They showed their class right from the start of the season by beating Cape Town City in the final of the MTN8 Cup to win their first piece of silverware. That dominance continued during what eventually turned out to be a one-sided DStv Premier League campaign in which Sundowns managed to win their second title with some games to spare.

In any top football league, winning three trophies in a single season is an achievement that underlines the supremacy of a club. That is why the big question doing rounds in football circles is: Will Sundowns be able to bring the curtain down on a very fruitful 2021/22 campaign by adding the Nedbank Cup to their trophy cabinet?

Sundowns managed this feat during the 2019/20 season by winning the Telkom Cup, the Nedbank Cup as well as the ABSA Premiership. Standing between Sundowns and what would be another historic achievement are Marumo Gallants, who made it to the final of the Nedbank Cup through a 1-0 win over fellow Limpopo club Tshakhuma Tsha Madzivhandila.

The winner of this season's Nedbank Cup will be decided at the Royal Bafokeng Sports Stadium on Saturday 28 May. Despite Sundowns being hot favourites to win the trophy, don't expect the match to be a onesided affair because cup finals never are! Remember that Kaizer Chiefs were once knocked out of the Nedbank Cup by Baroka FC. which at that time was not even playing in the PSL. Remember also that Marumo Gallants are the defending champions of the Nedbank Cup and will fight tooth and nail to retail their trophy. So never rule out the underdog because the unpredictable nature of football could - as it often does - prove you wrong. Don't miss Sundowns taking on Gallants at Royal Bafokeng Stadium. Kick-off is at 18:00.

Rustenburg Ladies eye top spot

The Rustenburg Ladies Football Club team is aiming for their second win of the season.

Rustenburg - The Rustenburg Ladies Football Club team is hoping for a second consecutive win when they take on Gopane Ladies on Saturday 28 May.

A victory for Rustenburg, who will be playing at their home ground in Lefaragatlhe, could see them going to the summit of the North West Sasol Women's Football League B-Stream. The team, which is coached by Shime Mokgadi, is currently fourth on the log with six points after three matches.

Mokgadi will be hoping that both log leaders Royal Queens and second placed Tswelelang De'Scorpion FC (who are also on the same number of points but have a superior goal aggregate) either draw or lose their matches. Royal Queens will be up against RM Diamond Ladies while Tswelelang will play against Mafikeng Ladies.

Rustenburg Ladies, who defeated Tswelelang 4-0 in Klerksdorp on Saturday 21 May, will shoot to the top of the log if they win on 28 May and both Royal Queens and Tswelelang fail to win

The club, which trains at Olympia Park Stadium in Rustenburg from Mondays to Fridays from 16:00 to 18:00, is inviting anyone interested in football to join them. For more info, contact Shime Mokgadi on 072 558 8515.

Vixens training hard

Rustenburg - Impala Rugby Club's women rugby team, the Vixens, will continue practising for the rest of the year although they are no longer competing in the playoffs. A 110-0 loss to Ikaheng on Saturday 14 May might have brought their season to an end but Vixens coach Trevor Vissier is determined to continue moulding the team into a more competitive outfit. "We will put in place a plan of action for the rest of the year," Vissier said. He said much of their future training will focus on gym work and inculcating a more physical approach to the game. "Rugby is a contact sport and good fitness levels can also help to avoid injuries," Vissier explained. While he congratulated all members of the team for their commitment, he singled out Abigail Maritz, Lyne Raats, Angelique Vierra and Sapokazi Mlatsha - who are all part of the Leopards provincial team – as the stars of the team.

"The Vixens team would like to thank everyone for their support, especially our sponsors for the kit." Vissier concluded. He said the door was still open for more players who would like to be part of the team. For more information contact Trevor Vissier on 063 635 9378.

Rustenburg - Edward Mothibi and Cornelia Joubert were among the stars of the Fortress REIT Running Series on Sunday 15 May, who both won the 21.1km half marathon male and female sections respectively.

Mothibi, a 2019 Comrades Marathon champion, completed the race - which started and finished at Rustenburg Plaza - in a time of 1:05.39. Onalenna Khonkhobe and Lucky Mohale, who both tried hard to keep up with Mothibi, had to settle for second and third place respectively.

Joubert, a former SA Marathon Champion. completed her race in an impressive time of 1:22.16 ahead of second placed Mekgoe Galaletsang and Tsholofelo Zwane, who finished third. "I really enjoyed the race," said Mothibi after the event. "The two laps over a mostly flat course were just what I needed for my session, and I am really happy with my performance and where I am currently at in my training."

Race director Dorah Mngwevu described the series as a success. "It was really good to see so many runners coming to the race. It is the first time we are hosting the race here in Rustenburg and I am happy to see that there was such a huge interest," Mgwevu said.

Anrich Barkhuizen enjoyed the 35km juniors' race

Rustenburg - It was a hive of activity at Roodeplaat on Saturday 21 May as members of the Rustenburg Cycling Club (RCC) joined other participants of the King Price Trailseeker#3 Buffelsdrift Mountain Bike Race.

Farm roads, cattle paths, dual tracks and strategically designed single tracks for mountain bikers made this the perfect venue for the third event in this exciting series. Muddy conditions saw the 70km race being shortened to a 43km contest.

Impala's fighting spirit endures

Rustenburg - Although Impala Rugby Club lost 57-33 to the Grizzlies on Saturday 21 May, hope is not lost.

They also lost 71-10 to Centurion on 7 May before going down 61-14 to Harlequins on 14 May. However, as the final score-line against the Grizzlies suggests, their defeat to the Grizzlies demonstrated a stronger fighting spirit that coach Joel Scherman now hopes to convert into a wining

"We probably should have won that match because we were doing quite well until towards the end when they scored quick tries," Scherman told Platinum Weekly. "Our second team lost 55-0 while the third team lost 50-0, so all our teams were beaten. However, we are not discouraged because we continue to learn from our mistakes," the coach compete and win matches on a more consistent basis. During the game against the Grizzlies, Andre Grobler was handed the number 15 jersey while Charlton Scholtz was moved to 10. Trevor Visser was shifted to 13 alongside inside centre Macdonald Duma. The fast Ashley Madube also made a welcome return to the side as part of the many changes made by Scherman and his technical team.

Scherman has been working hard behind the scenes to make sure Impala will be a team that can another tough one," Scherman added.

Although these changes failed to bring about a positive result, Scherman believes the team is now on a much better trajectory to become a formidable Grenville Open Day a massive success!

Rustenburg – Grenville High School's open day on Wednesday 18 May was a resounding success enjoyed by learners, parents and educators.

The open day was an excellent platform for prospective learners and their parents to learn more about the school, which over the years has established itself as one of best learning institutions in Rustenburg.

In an interview with Platinum Weekly, Grenville High principal Susan Quirk described the excellent facilities at the school. "Grenville is definitely the best high school in Rustenburg. We have all the facilities available for learners. We have an outside stadium, hockey fields and we are busy revamping the netball fields. Our academic pass rate for the past 10 years has been over 96%. We owe this success to a dedicated team of teachers, staff and a very beautiful school."

She said students at the school are always encouraged by their educators to excel and reach their full potential.

"It is a place where everyone can be an individual, find themselves and take part in many activities. We also teach computer applications technology in our fully equipped laboratories. "In addition, we have a resource centre for learners to conduct their research work under the supervision of very qualified educators," Quirk explained.

Grade 12 learner Katlego Faith Molusi said the school provides a platform for them to assist less privileged students from other schools.
