Hope has its sleeves rolled up

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – Sometimes, hope looks like a freshly cut verge. Across Wards 15, 16 and 17, Our Ward Matters (OWM) is showing what steady, hands-on care can achieve: clearer sidewalks, tidier corners and neighbourhoods residents can feel proud of.

Founded by Ward 15 councillor André van Dyk and led alongside councillor Tanya Rothman, the initiative keeps showing up, turning overgrown and neglected spaces into visible signs of progress.

Week after week, we report on their work. This week, we pause to say: Rustenburg sees the difference. Thank you!

Little Hilux, big search for owner

A little bakkie waiting to go home: the Toyota Hilux Rugged X children's electric ride-on toy car found abandoned in Kroondal.

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Kroondal, Rustenburg – This little bakkie belongs on a young driver's next adventure… but first, police need help finding its rightful owner. Rustenburg SAPS members on night patrol discovered an abandoned Toyota Hilux Rugged X two-seater children's electric ride-on toy car in the Kroondal area last week. Warrant officer Ofentse Mokgadi said the toy vehicle is being kept at the Rustenburg SAPS exhibit office. No case has been registered at this stage. The rightful owner is asked to visit the exhibit office to identify and claim it. Proof of ownership will be required.

Suurvy, a hardy South African succulent.

Suurvy: a little plant, a mother's care and a childhood memory

[letter to the editor]

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – Some childhood memories come back at the sight of a familiar plant. For me, suurvy brings back memories of my mother treating our mouth sores with its leaf juice – and the relief I remember afterwards.

There was something comforting about that simple act: Mom knew what to reach for, and help was growing in the garden.

Known as sour fig or Carpobrotus edulis, suurvy is a hardy South African succulent with fleshy, triangular leaves. It makes an attractive, water-wise groundcover, but its presence in our gardens and at local malls tells a story that goes beyond gardening.

Its use for mouth and throat complaints is part of a documented tradition. The South African National Biodiversity Institute records the leaf juice's traditional use for these purposes. That childhood memory belongs to a much wider story of knowledge passed down through generations. However, always speak to a healthcare professional before using plant remedies in a child's mouth.

We can treasure the remedies our mothers knew while taking care with how we pass that knowledge on. Sometimes a small plant holds a whole childhood's worth of memories — and a reminder of the loving hands that cared for us.

A life spent answering the call: remembering John Lucky Penyenye

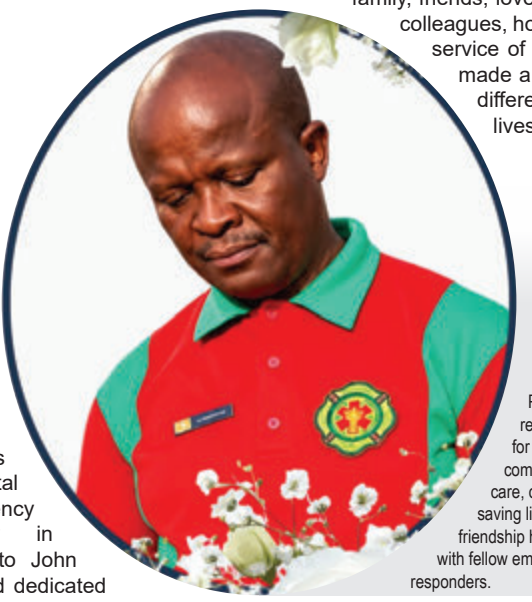

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg

— A medic who brought care to people in their most vulnerable moments is now being remembered with love and gratitude. The emergency medical services (EMS) community is mourning John Lucky Penyenye, who died in the line of duty at Tsitsing Crossing on Sunday evening, 25 October 2026.

Rustenburg First Responders and Medicare Private Hospital Rustenburg joined the emergency medical services fraternity in mourning and paying tribute to John as a friend, brother, mentor and dedicated paramedic whose contribution reached beyond the emergencies he attended.

Colleagues remembered his humility, kindness and laughter, as well as his willingness to lend a hand. Alongside his passion for saving lives, it was his compassion for the people in his care that left a lasting impression. For those who served alongside him, John's passing is both a personal loss and a loss to the wider EMS community across the North West. His dedication to responding to emergencies and helping people through frightening and uncertain moments reflected the heart of his profession.

We extend our heartfelt condolences to his family, friends, loved ones and colleagues, honouring the service of a man who made a meaningful difference in the lives of others.

The late John Lucky Penyenye, remembered for his compassionate care, dedication to saving lives and the friendship he shared with fellow emergency responders.

Yellow stakes help track bracken at Kgaswane

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – Visitors to Kgaswane Mountain Reserve may notice something unusual on the Sable loop: bright yellow stakes in the grassland and bracken fern (Pteridium aquilinum). These do not indicate a new trail or development but form part of a master's research project investigating how bracken fern may be affecting biodiversity and the availability of forage for wildlife.

The research will be undertaken by master's student Ignatius Guvi under the supervision of Prof Dave Thompson of the South African Environmental Observation Network (SAEON) and Dr Catherine Dzerefos of Tshwane University of Technology (TUT).

Using tree poppers loaned from MCSA to remove bugweed.

From left: Catherine Dzerefos (Tshwane University of Technology), Tshifhiwa Malise (NW Parks) and master's students Ignatius Guvi (Tshwane University of Technology) and Erin Kenyon (University of Pretoria).

Bracken fern can form extensive, dense stands and has the potential to alter the vegetation growing beneath and around it. In a protected area such as Kgaswane Mountain Reserve, understanding these changes is important because grassland and other herbaceous plants provide both habitat for biodiversity and forage for grazing wildlife.

Guvi's research will monitor bracken plants and the surrounding vegetation over time. The yellow stakes are an important part of this monitoring system, allowing the researchers to return to the same marked plants and locations and record changes consistently. Visitors are therefore kindly asked not to remove, move or disturb the yellow stakes.

An important component of the fieldwork is understanding how bracken affects the light reaching plants beneath its canopy. The research team gratefully acknowledges Erin Kenyon from the University of Pretoria, who provided training on recording measurements of photosynthetically active radiation (PAR). PAR represents the portion of sunlight that plants can use for photosynthesis.

These measurements will help determine how much light reaches vegetation growing beneath and around bracken and provide insight into one of the mechanisms through which dense bracken stands may influence other plant species. The research is expected to provide practical information to assist conservation managers in understanding the ecological consequences of bracken expansion and determining whether active management or restoration may be necessary in affected areas.

So, if you are visiting Kgaswane Mountain Reserve and encounter a series of yellow stakes among the vegetation, please leave them exactly where they are. They are helping scientists follow ecological change one plant at a time.

Pots, chemicals and a police raid

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Mogwase – A tip-off led police to another suspected drug laboratory in North West on Friday, 23 October 2026, with four people arrested and a fifth suspect still being sought. Police discovered the suspected operation at premises in Thabeng Section, Ramokokastad, in the Mogwase area near Sun City.

According to police spokesperson constable Thuto Bobelo, officers executed a search and seizure warrant after receiving information about suspected drug manufacturing at the property. Inside, police found equipment and materials allegedly used to manufacture illicit drugs, including generators, gas cylinders, gas stoves, five large cooking pots, more than 100 buckets, water tanks and 20-litre plastic containers. Officers also seized 20 bags, each weighing approximately 40kg, containing suspected drug material. Various chemicals, sink baths, a cooking bay and three drying areas were also discovered.

Preliminary observations suggested that the premises may have been used to manufacture Mandrax and crystal methamphetamine. The recovered substances still require analysis to establish their nature and composition.

Two women, aged 71 and 24, and two men, aged 19 and 52, were arrested. A fifth suspect reportedly evaded arrest, and police are continuing efforts to trace the individual.

The four arrested suspects appeared in the Mogwase Magistrates' Court on Monday, 26 October, on charges of manufacturing and dealing in illicit drugs.

The operation brought together the Provincial Tracker Team, Mogwase Crime Prevention, Rustenburg Crime Scene Investigation, the Directorate for Priority Crime Investigation, Rustenburg Crime Intelligence and the Phokeng K9 Unit.

North West provincial commissioner lieutenant general Arthur Adams commended the officers, highlighting the importance of community information and coordinated policing in tackling suspected drug manufacturing.

At the scene of the drug laboratory uncovered in Ramokokastad, where police seized equipment, chemicals and drug material during a multidisciplinary operation.

NWU mining school: A chance to build Rustenburg's future

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg – When Platinum Weekly first reported on plans for a North-West University (NWU) School of Mines and Mining Engineering in Rustenburg in August 2025, it was exciting news. The prospect holds enormous promise for our city, bringing opportunities for education, skills development and economic growth closer to home.

Now, NWU principal and vice-chancellor Prof. Bismark Tyobeka is calling on businesses, government and communities to help turn that ambition into a lasting institution.

In his latest appeal, Tyobeka explains that mining engineering could anchor a much broader university presence in Rustenburg. The vision includes opportunities for healthcare training, business education, short courses and support for local entrepreneurs.

Locally accessible training could help mineworkers, artisans, supervisors and managers advance their careers, while university expertise could assist emerging businesses in the mining supply chain. Tyobeka also highlights the proposed tertiary hospital in Bojanala as a potential platform for nursing and clinical training, subject to the necessary agreements and approvals. Realising this vision will require shared investment. Mining houses, equipment suppliers, banks and other businesses are invited to contribute bursaries, equipment, expertise, research partnerships or commitments to employee training. Tyobeka proposes a founding partnership forum to agree on priorities, costs and a phased development plan.

For Rustenburg, the promise reaches beyond mining: it is an opportunity to turn the region's mineral wealth into skills, livelihoods and opportunities for generations to come.

To submit partnership proposals, pledge support or request information, email miningschool@nwu.ac.za.

Prof. Bismark Tyobeka, NWU principal and vice-chancellor, is calling for partnerships to help realise the proposed School of Mines and Mining Engineering in Rustenburg.

HAVE YOUR SAY

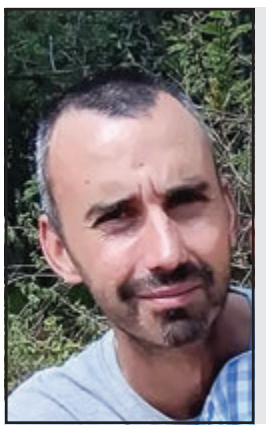

Do you believe using wild animals in circuses is cruel?

For some, the circus brings family fun. For others, keeping wild animals confined and making them perform raises concerns about their wellbeing. Should wild animals have a place in the circus ring?

"Yes. Wild animals were never meant to perform in circuses. I believe these environments restrict their freedom and put both animals and people at risk. God created them to live in their natural habitats."

Olebogeng Moreotsile, Rustenburg

"No. We should not assume cruelty without evidence. If animals are healthy, loved and properly cared for, why condemn the circus? We also need to consider how this differs from keeping animals in zoos, aquariums and fenced wildlife parks."

Jaco van Biljon, Rustenburg

SOME BIRDS SLEEP WITH ONE EYE OPEN...
For some birds, keeping an eye out for danger is possible even during sleep. Mallard ducks can rest one half of their brain while the other remains alert – a state called unihemispheric slow-wave sleep. The eye connected to the alert half stays open, helping them detect approaching predators. Researchers found that ducks resting at the edges of a group used this sleeping strategy more often, directing their open eye away from their companions. This unusual ability allows them to get some rest while watching for threats.

Good company for a challenging ride! Rustenburg Cycling Club's mountain bikers at Rustenburg Toyota. Their 65km outing included the demanding Magatas-nek climb.

Rustenburg Cycling Club's road cyclists at Rustenburg Toyota. The group covered an impressive 120km during Saturday's club ride.

GOOD COMPANY, GREAT CLIMBS AND KILOMETRES OF SMILES

Platinum Weekly newspaper | Rustenburg — With 65km of mountain biking or 120km of road cycling on the morning's menu, Rustenburg Cycling Club's latest outing offered plenty of pedal power – and good company. Ten mountain bikers and six road cyclists joined the club ride on Saturday 24 October 2026, with regular members welcoming visitors and new members for a morning exploring the area's roads and trails.

The mountain bikers tackled a challenging 65km route around Kgaswane mountain, stopping at a local roadside stall for refreshments before taking on the well-known Magatas-nek climb. Their return route took them through "At se Gat" to Kloof Road, before they rounded off the adventure with an ice-cold refreshment at Coffee on Safari. Meanwhile, the road cyclists headed towards Koster Dam via the N4, also tackling Magatas-nek on their return journey. They covered an impressive 120km during the morning.

Whether on tar or trail, the outing brought together cyclists who share an appetite for fresh air, a challenge and time in the saddle. RCC looks forward to seeing familiar faces and welcoming newcomers on its next club ride.

The club thanked its sponsors, Rustenburg Toyota, Infinity, M Civils, Rustenburg Gearbox Centre and Local Choice Pharmacy, for their support.
